RULES FOR THE JOURNEY OF LIFE -The following rules from the papers of Dr. West, according to his memorandum, are thrown to gether as general way marks in the journey of life: Never ridicule stered things, or what others may esteem as such, however absurd they may appear to you.

Never show levity when people are engaged in worship. Never resent a supposed injury, til you know the views and motives of the author

Always take the part of an absect person who may be consured in company, so far as truth and propriety will allow. Never thick worse of another on his diff r ing from you in political or religious subjects.

Net to dispute with a man who is more than seventy years of age, por with a woman nor any sort of embasiset. Not to affect to be wirty, or to jis: so as to hurt the feelings of another. To say as little as possible of yourself and those who are near you. To got with cheerfulness without levity.

Never to court the favor of the ries by flit-teriog their varities or their rishes. To speak with calmoes and deliberation on all occusions, especially of circumstances which tend to irritate. A FABLE .- Oads upon a time there was a king, and the thing he liked best was wisiom, and the thing he liked worst was the king who ruled pext door. He wanted to find the wisest man in all the kingdom and so heasked a ques I have in that time gained twenty-five pounds tion. "What is the lowest order of creature filesh, being heavier than over before in my ever created on the face of the earth?" And the astrologers and wise men came together and argued; and some said a "somi," and some said a "jelly fish." But the king wasn't satisfied and a'l the arof my bady.

I took Vegelice saithfully, and it removed it level with the surface in a month. I think I should have been corred of my main trouble sconer if I had taken larger doses, after having lowest order of creature is the gassip and the lowest order of creature is the gassip and the lowest order of creature is the gossip and the tale bearer." And the king's tace brightened, and sweet toned harps were played upon, and they put a gold ring on the young man's finger, and all the nobles pulled down their vests when he went by. And the kingdom grew and waxed strong, and wered all its enemies, and so did the young mae, for he was found to be expeedingly wise.

A GLOOMY BOUDOIR -Miss Mary Anderson, in conversation with a Louisville reporter. tells about Sarah Berobardi's freak of sleeping in a coffin, the truth of which has been questioned : "She slept in a coffin continuously for three years. She does not do so now. I asked her why the had given up the habit. She said she had grown tired of it, as it was uncomfortable." "What was her movine for the whim?" "She and she wished to familiarz berseit with the thought of death. 1 saw ber boudoir. The earges was of black velvet, with flowers to silver, the forniture covered with black velvet, and the walls cariously deccrated in the same lashion. A skeleton of a man where she said died of love to Montana hung before the mirror, with finger pointing at its own reflection. In large ban's about the room ies: leaves were heaped, the fragraces that arose being overpowering. I could not remain to the room, it was so suggestive of borrible thoughts." THE HAILSTORMS I HEY HAVE IN MONTANA. A Fr. Keigh (Montana) corre-pondent writes: On reaching Powder River we found there had been a terrifie hailstorm, which had almost entirely stripped the trees of their feaves and emaller branches. Sometimes the bail stones in this region are most destructive. In the summer of '77, while the Crow Indians were excumped on the Yellowstone near the mouth of the Big flore river, a hailstorm killed some four hundred of their ponies, and about two hundred more were drowned in the river. Having become frightened in the storm, they ran isto the river, and were carried down by the swift current. The hall stones in this storm were described as being as large as gooseeggs, and fell, with crushing force, treaking through the lodge poles, and cutting through the skin of the lodges as if it were paper. YELLOW FEVER -Dr. A. W. Smyth, a prominent physician, testified before the yellow fever commissioners at New Orleans Saturday that he believed yellow fever, wherever it existed, originated there. He thought it originated in Grenada and Holly Springs, and would have originated there if all outside communi caring had been cut off. He believed that heatwas a main factor of yellow fever. He did not believe in the germ theory, nor that yellow fever was transmitted from one person to another, nor was there any evidence that it could be transmitted in goods or clothing. Dr. Austio, of the New Orleans board of health, expressed the opinion that fever was imported.

A BILL NOT IN THE BILLS .- At Fex's American Theatre, Philadelphia, Friday afternoon, just as Miss Fannic Louise Buckingham was about being strapped as Mazeppa upon her "fiery untamed steed," a deputy sheriff made his appearance and levied upon the animal, to secure an execution against Miss Buckingham for a furniture bill contracted years ago. After consultation it was agreed that Miss Buckiegham should turn the horse over to the sheriff after the performaco: Saturday evening. Mis Buckingham protested that the horse belonged to her brother in Baltimore, and it was expected he would appear and claim the beast.
